

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THE need of a catalogue of the Library, approximating at least to the modern standard of fullness and accuracy, having been for some years severely felt, the Acting Librarian, Mr. James, in 1890 drew up the scheme of the present publication, and the preparation of a catalogue in accordance with that scheme was duly sanctioned by the Joint Library Committee on the 11th September, 1890. The compilation of the work was begun, under the superintendence and with the co-operation of the Acting Librarian, by Mr. Basil Stocker in October, 1890, assisted subsequently by Mr. E. Samuel; and the whole of the first volume was in type by the middle of July, 1897. The whole work has been superintended, revised, and edited by Mr. James.

The catalogue has been compiled on the alphabetico-classed system; that is to say, while each book is suitably classified, all the entries about a book—its author, subject, class, title, &c.—are arranged in one alphabetical order, instead of names of authors forming one list, the names of subjects another, the classes of literature a third, the titles a fourth, and so on. The classification, however, is indirect: books are not usually entered under a comprehensive heading if they can be put under some less general one to which a reference can be made. Works about bees, for example, are not entered under "Insects," or even under "Hymenoptera," but under "Bee," with a reference from "Hymenoptera" to "Bee" and from "Insects" to "Hymenoptera." This system of cross-references from the general to the particular or between two or more cognate or alternative headings or names is, with the alphabetical arrangement, the main feature of the catalogue, and one which has entailed upon the editor an immense amount of labour in the shape of verification and research.

In every case the main entry of each book—that is, the entry in which the fullest detail is given—is made under the author's name. If the book has no acknowledged personal author, the author's pseudonym, if any, is treated as the author's name. Failing this, the editor or translator or publishing body, as the case may be, is treated as author. Lastly, in the absence of all these, and in particular circumstances in preference to them, the book is treated as its own author, and the main entry is made under its title, "Bible" and "Koran" being notable examples. In every case full references are given from the author's other names or different forms of his name to the name or form selected for the main entry. The main entry includes the full name and title of the author, sufficient of the title of the book in question to reflect the title-page correctly, the name of the publishing body (if any), and of the series (if any) to which the book belongs, a note of the maps, plans, or illustrations contained in the book, the number of volumes, the number of the edition (if other than the first), the size in centimetres, and the place and date of publication; also, in entries of one-volume books relating to New Zealand, the number of pages in the book. Whenever desirable a note is added to the main entry dealing with any matter relating to the book which seems to require special attention, particularly the contents of collections and defects or deficiencies of the book in question.

The main entry being made, each book is then entered, as circumstances may require, under its editors, translators, joint authors, annotators, commentators, series, publishing body, title, and specific subject; and references are made to its author from his other names or other forms of his name, and to its subject from cognate subjects and from comprehensive headings which include its subject. In the case of collections further entries are made under the names of all the authors, all the subjects, and some or all (according to their nature) of the titles concerned, with additional references accordingly.

Authors and other persons are entered under whatever is reputed to be the most accurate form of their names, with references, where necessary, from other forms. But German names containing an umlaut are spelled with e or with a diaeresis according as seems most usual, with a reference from the other form in every case; as, "F. Max Müller" with a reference from "Mueller." And, as a matter of general convenience, F.-M. Arouet, Mary Ann Evans afterwards Cross, and Madame Dudevant are entered under their assumed names of Voltaire, George Eliot, and George Sand respectively.

Countries or governments are treated as the authors of their own official publications; and under the name of each country, colony, or government, entries of these precede entries of works about the country, colony, or government. Usually the official publications of each country are classified under the names of the various departments or branches of the administration by which they are issued; but for various reasons this classification cannot always be rigidly followed or even satisfactorily carried out, and arbitrary subdivisions, notably "Statutes" and "Statistics," are for convenience sometimes adopted. In the case of the very voluminous heading "Great Britain" it has been thought best to adopt an arrangement largely chronological, with a full index, and to enter many of the subdivisions as separate headings in their alphabetical places in the catalogue. But the whole problem of the cataloguing of official publications is an extremely difficult one, and one as yet but imperfectly solved.

With a few isolated exceptions, the present catalogue contains no entries relating to the great collection of the official publications of the United States in the Library or to the considerable mass of pamphlets which the Library possesses, it having been found impossible to cope at present with the cataloguing of these two collections. In the meanwhile it is hoped that the official list of the United States publications and the Library "Alphabetical list of the bound pamphlets" will to some extent serve.

It has, unfortunately, been found impossible to print case- or shelf-marks in the present catalogue, the overcrowded condition of the Library building and the possibility of the early erection of a new one, together with the consequent temporary nature of the shelf-arrangement, rendering the printing of such marks inadvisable.

The rules adopted in the compilation of the catalogue have been selected chiefly from Cutter's "Rules for a dictionary catalogue," second edition, Dziatzko's "Instruction für die Ordnung der Titel im alphabetischen Zettelkatalog," the British Museum "Rules for the compilation of the catalogue of printed books," the "Compendious cataloguing rules" of the Bodleian Library, Dewey's "Library school card catalog rules," and the cataloguing rules of the Library Associations of America and of the United Kingdom. Blackburn's "Catalogue titles" and Linderfelt's "Eclectic card catalog rules" have also been much consulted; as have also numerous library catalogues, especially those of the British Museum, the Boston Athenæum, and the Surgeon-General's Office at Washington. To the eclectic collection of rules derived from these authorities some original ones have been added to meet special requirements of the General Assembly Library, and it is believed that the resultant work will be found in most respects satisfactory. For authors' names the British Museum catalogue, Allibone's "Critical dictionary of English literature," with Kirk's supplement, the "Dictionary of national biography," the peerages by Burke and Debrett, Halkett and Laing's "Dictionary of the anonymous and pseudonymous literature of Great Britain," Cushing's "Initials and pseudonyms" and his "Anonyms," as well as numerous lesser works, have been in constant use. But when the editor has been able to correct, supplement, or modernise the information conveyed or the methods adopted by any of these authorities, he has not hesitated to exercise an independent judgment or to give the results of his own original research.

In a work of such magnitude, abounding in every kind of literary and typographical detail, and requiring for its proper execution the most minute and painstaking research into matters connected with every branch of knowledge, it is inevitable that oversights, both typographical and editorial, will occur; but the editor has exercised unremitting vigilance in the attempt to discover and correct them before final printing, and believes he has in most cases succeeded. In this connexion he desires to draw attention to the table of addenda and corrigenda in the second volume. Scholars will doubtless observe some blemishes in transliterated oriental names, in Polish, Portuguese, and Hungarian words, and in mediæval Latin titles in which abbreviations occur and should be faithfully copied; but these defects may fairly be deemed excusable if regard be had to the difficulty of procuring type with the necessary diacritical marks, accents, and abbreviating signs.

The editor desires to express his sense of the accuracy of the work done by Mr. Basil Stocker, M.A., and Mr. E. Samuel; and he has pleasure in acknowledging the aid he has received from his assistant, Mr. C. H. Streeton, M.A., whose classical scholarship has enabled him to render invaluable service. The editor's best thanks are also due to his own mother for assistance gratuitously rendered in the reading of the proofs of a portion of the first volume.

The Hebrew and smaller Greek type used in the catalogue was kindly lent by Mr. R. Coupland Harding, of Wellington.

H. L. JAMES,
Editor-in-Chief.

N.B.—The classification and division of this article follow in part only the distribution of the Museum itself into "departments"; but where these have seemed most suitable they have been adopted. The division "Zoology" has been further subdivided as nearly as possible in a logical sequence from the highest to the lowest grades of the animal world, the classification and nomenclature following as closely as has been found advisable the best recent authorities. Under each division or subdivision of the article the works are arranged alphabetically by their titles. In every case where a work can, as a whole, be referred to a personal author the main entry must be looked for under such author's name; but in other cases the Museum is regarded as author, and the main entry appears in this article.

The following is the classification:—

Gallice conscriptis, in linguam Latinam versa & commentariis illustrata, opera atque studio Francisci a Schooten . . . ab eodem diligenter recognita . . . multaeque egregiis accessionibus . . . exornata . . .* Ed. 3. Portrait and figures. 21 cm. The half-title reads "Renati Des-Cartes geometria. Editio tertia, multis accessionibus exornata, & plus altera sui parte adaucta."

Contributors: de Beaune (Florimond)—van Schooten (Frans)—Huddenius (Johannes)—van Heuraet (Henricus).

The verso of the title-page contains the titles of four works by a Schooten, de Beaune, and Jan de Witt which are not included in the volume. They are given, however, in the Brit. Mus. catalogue as occurring in the edition of 1659; but this is probably an error, as the list appears to be only an advertisement.

According to W. Cushing, "Initials and pseudonyms." 1886, this work is by G. W. F. Villiers, 4th Earl of Clarendon; revised by his secretary, Gen. Eber; published first in English, 1862; translated into French by C.-B. Derosne, 1863. The Brit. Mus. Cat. (1886-87) makes C.-B. D. the author. It was apparently the edition in 8 v. 8°, with the travels of De Lesseps annexed (see plate no. 69), or perhaps the edition in 2 v. 4° (if that be not the same) published in 1799, for which see the York Gate Library catalogue.

Great Britain.

NOTE.

This article is divided into two parts—I., Official publications of the Government; and, II., Works about Great Britain. It has been found practically impossible to refer each official publication in every case to one sole department or branch of the administration, therefore the majority of these publications have been arranged chronologically in order of their dates of publication in section B of the division "Official publications." The remainder, being such as are of a serial nature, are placed in section A of the same division, under the names of the departments, commissions, etc., which are apparently responsible for them; though in some cases arbitrary headings, such as "Convict establishments," "Statutes," and "State trials," have for convenience been adopted.

Division I. is preceded by an index to the list of official publications, in which the headings of the alphabetical section A are printed in italics to distinguish them from other entries. In this index references to pages are made in three figures, followed by the letter a or b to indicate respectively the first or second column of each page; while references in four figures are to dates in the chronologically arranged section B, no reference to page or column being in such cases necessary.

Division II. is preceded by a list of its subdivisions, which constitute an alphabetically classified list of the works about Great Britain which the Library possesses.

I. OFFICIAL PUBLICATIONS.

INDEX.

NOTE.—References in three figures are to pages in the catalogue, those in four to dates in the chronologically arranged portion of the list of official publications of Great Britain. Entries in italics followed by a page number are subdivisional headings in the alphabetical section A; those accompanied by a date or dates are references to the chronological section B.
